WHAT TYPE OF LEADER ARE YOU?

Create exemplary leaders using the Enneagram to develop today's 7 most important leadership competencies

Train-the-Trainer program with Ginger Lapid-Bogda, PhD

6 virtual sessions – 4 hours each – plus pre-work and post-work

Organizations across the globe are experiencing a leadership shortage: lack of leadership bench-strength within the organization's current cadre of leaders; difficulty finding effective leaders from outside the organization; confusion about how to develop tomorrow's leaders in a constantly changing environment; and lack of skill transferability from one leadership position to another. Not surprisingly, leadership is the 2nd most frequently used application of the Enneagram in business settings.*

This program shows you how to integrate the Enneagram with 7 different leadership competency models: Drive for Results; Strive for Self-Mastery; Know the Business; Think and Act Strategically; Become an Excellent Communicator; Lead High-Performing Teams; Make Optimal Decisions; and Take Charge of Change. The program also includes an additional special section, Stretch Your Leadership Paradigms, an innovative way to enhance leadership capability.

Participants receive a comprehensive Trainer's Guide with 50 activities described in great detail, 58 powerpoint slides, 14 participant handouts, 2 musical slide shows, 2 fabric banners, and a set of training tools. During the program, participants engage in all activities, but also facilitate sessions (with feedback) and practice designing and leading their own original experiential exercises.

THIS VIRTUAL PROGRAM COVERS ALL CONTENT COVERED IN THE IN-PERSON PROGRAMS, THROUGH BOTH ZOOM AND INDEPENDENT PARTICIPANT WORK.

There is also required pre-and post-work for each session that utilizes the Enneagram Learning Portal.

WHAT IS THE PROGRAM STRUCTURE?

Overall Program Orientation

The Train-the-Trainer program based on What Type of Leader Are You? is highly interactive, competency-based, intertwines theory and practice, and is a powerful way to develop leaders. And all of this is in the 190-page Trainer's Guide.

Enneagram Learning Communities

Each participant is a member of an Enneagram Learning Community for the entire week, a small group that explores each leadership competency, shares how it relates to his or her Enneagram style, and learns self-development approaches to enhance capability in this area. Each participant leads one or more Learning Communities!

Large Group Exercises

Every leadership competency section also includes dynamic, larger group activities that illuminate the specific competency and the particular way in which leaders of each type have related strengths, development areas, and unique development paths.

Leverage Your Leadership

This section covers general leadership style as an outgrowth of a leader's Enneagram style, complete with slide shows and case studies.

Drive for Results

This competency highlights the importance of focusing on more than just the end results, because then it might be too late: setting direction, creating plans, assigning work, establishing clear expectations with measurements and rewards, evaluating results at key milestones, and providing overall stewardship.

Strive for Self-Mastery

Self-mastery is central to all other leadership competencies. But what does it mean? Leaders explore the 6 dimensions of self-mastery – from self-awareness to personality integration – through dialogue, support, and self-development.

Know the Business: Think & Act Strategically

Every organizational leader must know the business and think like a strategist in this constantly changing business world. Some do it naturally, others must learn it, but all leaders can use the Enneagram to master the 11 components of this competency.

Become an Excellent Communicator

All leaders must do this effectively every day, with individuals and in groups both large and small. This practical competence shows leaders how to create genuine relationships, communicate clearly, listen fully, manage conflict and give feedback, and how to enhance their influence.

Lead High-Performing Teams

This program has a strong team emphasis, both through the use of a high-performing team competency model that covers products and services, culture, leadership, vision, talent architecture and processes, but also through an in-depth assessment of the project teams within the program.

Make Optimal Decisions

Learn how to access more fully the Head, Heart, and Body Centers of Intelligence in order to make wise decisions, but in the context of the organization's culture, authority-making structure, and the specific contextual requirements of the decision itself.

Take Charge of Change

Change has become a way of life for leaders: constant, chronic, and continuous change. Leaders have to do more than manage change, they must be change leaders, but also make certain that ongoing business needs are well met. This competency shows leaders how to do that using the Enneagram as their guide.

Stretch Your Leadership Paradigms

Rather than leaders having to grow when they are under pressure and stress, the Enneagram can help them engage in targeted-development activities on an ongoing basis. This sets up a leadership culture of strategic leadership excellence and growth.

WHAT IS THE ENNEAGRAM?

3 Centers of Intelligence

Each Enneagram style is rooted in one of three Centers of Intelligence: the Head Center, the Heart Center, or the Body Center. The three Centers of Intelligence stem from a long Eastern philosophical tradition and refer to the ways in which we typically process information and respond to events. While we all have heads, hearts, and bodies, our personality is organized around one of these three centers or modalities. Each center also contains three of the nine Enneagram styles.

Head Center Styles: 5, 6, and 7
 Heart Center Styles: 2, 3, and 4
 Body Center Styles: 8, 9, and 1

The goal of the Enneagram is integration: to fully and effectively access all three Centers and to use them in an aligned way.

History

The Enneagram is an ancient system – at least 2000 - 4000 years old. The word comes from two Greek words ennea (“nine”) and gram (“something written or drawn”), and refers to the nine points on the Enneagram symbol. The nine different Enneagram styles, identified as numbers One through Nine, reflect distinct habits of thinking, feeling, and behaving, with each style connected to a unique path of development. Each person has only one core Enneagram style, and while our Enneagram style remains the same throughout our lifetime, the characteristics of our style may either soften or become more pronounced as we grow and develop. In addition to our core Enneagram style, there are four other styles that provide additional qualities to our personalities; these are called wings and arrows.

Current Usage

More than a personality typology, the Enneagram is a profound map illuminating the nine different architectures of the human character. It is also the most powerful and practical system available for increasing emotional intelligence, with insights that can be used for personal and professional development.

Because the Enneagram is cross-cultural and uncannily accurate, it's modern usage is growing dramatically across the globe. In addition to being used by individuals who embrace it for their own insight and development, organizations are using the Enneagram to increase emotional intelligence (EQ), enhance communication, manage conflict constructively, build high-performing teams, develop leadership, and more.

“We are looking for the key to our ultimate fulfillment in the wrong place.” – C. Naranjo
